STRANGER FOUND DEAD: MURDER IS BELIEVED

WATER FAMINE MAY DRIVE OUT CAVALRY

Board Of Officers Studies Schofield Shortage And Post Commander Recommends Withdrawal Of Fifth Horse Immediately

AN Cavalry may be withdrawn from Oahu in the near future. The alarming scarcity of water at Schofield Barracks, and the steady diminution of the already inadequate supply has led to a recommendation, made by the post commander, that the Fifth Horse be sent back to continental United States immediately, and that the orders for the Fourth Cavalry to proceed to Hawaii be held up until such time as the new cavalry post is ready for occupancy, when the permanent water system will also be in operation.

This is in line with the recommendations of a board of officers recently convened to study water conditions at Schofield, and to suggest some remedy to a situation that grows more grave daily. After much deliberation, and a careful study of the sources of supply and the possibilities of increasing it, the board came to the conclusion that it would be best to remove the cavalry at once, and do away with some 600 head of horses. This, it is figured, will leave enough water for the Field Artillery and the two infantry regiments, until the time comes for the move to the permanent post.

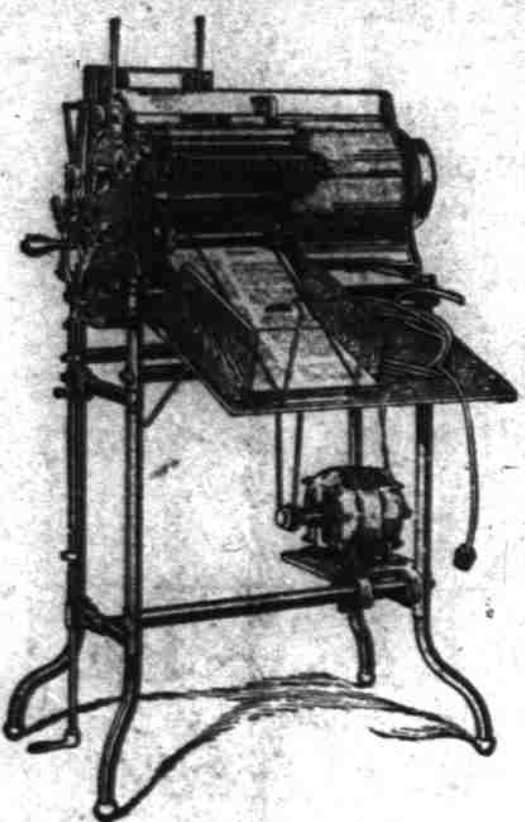

Supply inadequate. "We are very short of water now, and I have been forced to issue the strictest orders for its use," said Col. George K. McGinnis, post commander, when asked what action was being taken toward relieving present conditions. "I have had careful records kept for some time past, and they show that the supply is steadily decreasing, in spite of the fact that several new tunnels have been bored and ditches dug in the Waialua hills, to increase the flow. There is not enough water for the Cavalry horses, and for some time past they have been taken more than a mile from the cantonment to water at a tank which is connected with the new supply, which comes from the other side of the valley. Garden hose has been crisscrossed in, and practically the only water used is for drinking and bathing purposes."

It seems likely that the recommendation to withdraw all cavalry from the island for the time being will be acted upon, for the reason that with the departure of the Fifth, the First Infantry could move up to the present cavalry cantonment, thereby solving another big problem which the department and post commanders are now facing—that of quarters for the First Tenth Cavalry.

The regiment was ordered under canvas originally, although General Macomb recommended that a temporary cantonment be built for it. About $40,000 worth of tentage was spread, and already much of this is giving out. The climate is especially hard on canvas, and some of that issued to the First was old, having been issued to the volunteer troops at the time of the Spanish-American war. A short time ago a requisition was made for $13,000 worth of additional tentage, to make replacements, and besides allowing this, the order has come from division headquarters to have the chief quartermaster prepare estimates for building a cantonment. If, however, the cavalry is sent away and no more horses ordered there for the present,

BODY FOUND AT IWILEI IS UNIDENTIFIED

Clues Indicate May Be Ex-Soldier and from Philippines

BULLET WOUND IN STOMACH DEATH CAUSE

Robbery Not Motive, as Money
Discovered on Person
by Searchers

The body of a white man, poorly dressed, about twenty-five years of age, with a bullet hole in the abdomen, and dead apparently twenty-four hours, was found this afternoon, lying face downward in a stall at the abandoned United States Quartermaster's corral at Iwilei.

Coroner Rose, Chief of Detectives McDuffie and other officers hastened to the scene upon receiving information from two women to the effect that the remains of a man had been found in a high state of putrefaction. That the dead man is the victim of a murder is the present theory held by the police after conducting a preliminary investigation. A search of the clothes and few personal effects found upon the person of the deceased indicated that the deceased had been a soldier, and had spent some time in the Philippines.

Police Scout Suicide Theory. That the man deliberately took his own life is scouted by the police who visited the scene of the tragedy. The body while considerably decomposed after lying in the corral, upon examination revealed a wound but a few inches below the navel made by a bullet.

An investigation pursued by the officers on the ground resulted in the bringing to light one masher bullet, that was found imbedded in the wood on wall of the horse stall. The statement is made that several shots must have been fired before the victim of the tragedy was brought to his death.

In looking over the premises, the officers came upon a demijohn partially filled with a cheap wine. In the clothing of the dead man nothing has so far been discovered that would lead to the establishment of the identity of the deceased. A number of tickets, and several advertising cards bearing the name and place of business of local firms were found in one of the pockets.

Philippines Might Furnish a Clue. From the Philippines may come a clue as to the identity of the person whose remains now repose at the city and county morgue. The body shows indications that the deceased served for an extended period in the island possession of Uncle Sam. On one arm is a tattooed design, evidently the work of a Japanese artist, in which the word "Philippines" is clear and distinctly incorporated in the decoration.

One theory advanced this afternoon is to the effect that the man may have been a troop passenger in the United States army transport Sherman that called at Honolulu on Monday. While the body was poorly clad, and arrayed in dingy trousers and a cheap white shirt, some color is lent to the possibility that the victim hailed from the Philippines inasmuch as it was reported along the waterfront that during the stay of the Logan at Honolulu one of the score or more deportees sent from the islands at the instance of the Insular government succeeded in making a getaway from the troopship.

Women Find Remains. The Philippines government is said to have caused the deportation of a number of undesirable characters, many being alleged as conducting gambling and other operations against law and order.

In a raid made near Olongapo naval station, a quartette of dive keepers and gamblers were placed under arrest and the understanding that they might secure their release upon a promise to leave the country never to return.

These with others of like stamp were placed aboard the transport Sherman to be left at San Francisco. The story around the waterfront was that one of the party failed to respond to a roll call at the final muster before the dispatch of the troopship from Honolulu for San Francisco.

That the dead man discovered today may have been an involuntary passenger in the Sherman is believed quite

On his return here in June of the following year he was detained by the federal authorities on information that he had been convicted in Honolulu purposes. The court records show that he pleaded guilty to the charge and served a three months' term in prison for the offense.

JUDGE DOLE FOR PARKER, SHERIFF

Veteran Jurist Declares Republican Nominee Superior to Jarrett

Federal Judge Sanford B. Dole, first governor of the territory and ex-president of the republic of Hawaii has come out emphatically for Robert Parker, Republican candidate for sheriff to succeed W. P. Jarrett. Judge Dole is deeply interested in the police administration of Honolulu, and officially as an active member of the Humane Society and other public service organizations has seen what kind of an administration Jarrett has given the police department. The Star-Bulletin this morning asked Judge Dole for a statement upon the sheriffship situation, and the following interview is the result:

"I want to ask you what you think of Captain Robert Parker as a possibility for sheriff? If you think he would make a good man for the office?" Judge Dole was asked by a Star-Bulletin representative.

"I do," said Judge Dole. "I think he is a first class man for that place. He is an Hawaiian; he has had long experience in the police department as captain of police, and has always shown himself equal to every demand upon him. He is brave and he has good judgment, and he is cool. I think he is the man for the place."

"You know him very well personally, do you?"
"Pretty well; have known him a long time."
"Do you think that he is a better man than any of the other candidates?"
"I think so. He is temperate; he is a good man, a man who has lived a good life here and has a large family, industrious and has this fine record."

"You would support him against any of the others, then?"

"I would; I shall vote for him."

"Are you particularly opposed to Jarrett?"

"Well, I don't care to discuss Jarrett; I don't know him very well. Of course I have heard about him, but I don't care to discuss him."

"You approve of this other man against any of the others because you know of him and know he is absolutely competent in every way?"

"Yes, I do."

DOG QUARANTINE INVOLVES LINER VENTURA; BOARD ACTS

Decision No Canines May Enter Territory Save Via Honolulu Station

No dogs can be imported into the Territory except through Honolulu. This was decided by the board of agriculture and forestry at a meeting held this morning at the office of the Waterhouse company, Stangenwail building. It was considered that the expense of creating sub-stations for the quarantine of dogs on the other islands, or on this island, would be entirely out of the question.

A specific decision was voted that no dog quarantine station would be allowed at Schofield Barracks, or any other military post, as was done when the First regiment arrived some months ago with a large colony of dogs in its train.

Another firm resolve registered was that an example be made both of the Steamship Ventura and one of her passengers, on account of a dog belonging to such passenger which was allowed to come ashore without going into quarantine on the last southbound trip of that vessel. It was voted that the matter be placed in the hands of the attorney-general to take proceedings both against the ship and the owner of the dog, on the Ventura's return to port, if in his judgment he deems it prudent to do so.

The Tuberculin Test. In the report of the animal industry committee which brought up the dog quarantine, the matter of having dairy cattle on the other islands subjected to the tuberculin test was introduced. It had been decided by the committee that the superintendent of animal industry write to Dr. Elliot, veterinarian, Hilo, regarding the island of Hawaii, and to Doctors Fitzgerald and Laisyer, respectively assistant veterinarians on Maui and Kauai, as to those islands.

President Giffard reported that Dr. Norgaard had written the letters as directed, but answers had not been received. He added that while on Maui lately he spoke to Chairman Pogue of the board of supervisors, who promised to bring the subject before that body. Dr. Fitzgerald had tested the cattle of the large herds on Maui at the request of the owners. It was agreed that it would be impossible to extend the work of eradication tuberculosis in cattle to the other islands without the cooperation of the different boards of supervisors, there being no Territorial appropriation available for the purpose.

Animal Quarantine Stations. The president reported that, while on his recent trip, he had looked into the matter of sites for animal quarantine stations at Hilo and Kahului. A quite satisfactory site was available at Hilo, for which a release could be had from the Waialae Mill Co. Three sites were inspected at Kahului, two of which were out of the question on account of location. A third one, within ten minutes walk of the wharf, could be had on a long term lease at a nominal rental.

It was voted to give the president power to act in procuring the sites. Dr. Norgaard's recommendation that the rules and regulations governing the Honolulu station be printed in placard form and posted at the gate, was adopted.

A suggestion by Mr. Dowsett that ohia posts be substituted for redwood, which it was found the animals soon destroyed, at the Honolulu station, was referred to the animal industry committee.

Other Matters. A letter from Mr. H. A. Weinland, of the California board of horticulture, expressing his appreciation at departure for the courtesy and cooperation of the board during his work here on plant quarantine, was presented by the president and placed on file. Reports of divisions were accepted. A special report from the superintendent

KING'S DAUGHTERS GET $10,000 FROM UNKNOWN BENEFACCTOR

Check Received Last Saturday from Philanthropist Who Remains Incognito

Coming from an unknown source, ten thousand dollars has been placed in the hands of the King's Daughters by a mysterious philanthropist, to be used for whatever purpose they see fit.

The gift was received last Saturday through the hands of a local business man, who had been given charge of a certain sum of money to be used for various charitable purposes, ten thousand dollars of which was to be given to the King's Daughters. The money came to the organization in the form of a check through a bank.

The whole affair is shrouded in mystery, but nevertheless, the gift has been gratefully received, and as yet the King's Daughters are undecided as to what purpose it will be used for. It will probably either go into the new building or the general expense fund.

Harriman Fund Story Proved

[Associated Press Cable]
WASHINGTON, D. C., October 17.—Frank A. Munsey, owner of a string of publications and a recent convert to the Bull Moose movement, was put on the stand today by the Clapp committee investigating campaign contributions to tell what he knows of the sums secured by the Roosevelt leaders.

Munsey testified that he personally had contributed $67,000 to Roosevelt's campaign prior to the Chicago convention and since then has handed over $48,000 more.

One of the interesting exhibits today was the bank book of the Republican national committee of 1904. The book showed that in 1904 $340,000 was deposited at one time to the credit of the committee, the amount coinciding with that of the fund alleged to have been raised for Roosevelt by the late E. H. Harriman. The production of this book is taken to prove some very important points that have been raised.
